I am a graphic designer working across communication design, with a focus on branding, campaigns, digital experiences, and printed media. My practice spans websites, apps, books, magazines, and identity systems. By integrating research, experimentation, and visual storytelling, I develop projects that are both conceptually strong and visually cohesive, combining unexpected ideas and mediums to communicate effectively.

I aim to bring creativity, technical expertise, and a collaborative mindset to a design team, while continuing to develop my professional practice.
